

As usual, people love to exaggerate simple problems.

"O What a Tangled Web we Weave,
When first we Practice to deceive!"

To paint a picture of Super Villains and black and white scenarios is utterly dishonest.

To completely fail to take into account the myriad pressures and counter pulls that go towards making a homogeneous wave look so alluring and simple is the work of a hack, dishonestly selling per word for a living.

International Affairs, Internal antagonisms, Social Problems, Poverty and Population Pressures, further compounded by Cultural Invasion, Brain Drain, Class dissent, Exploitive Economy, Dog eat Dog competitive subsistence, Environmental Degradation, Work and Social Pressures and a plethora of other catalysts are swept under the carpet and a simplistic Us Vs Them Narrative is touted as Investigative Journalism.

Solutions and practical 'Ways Out' are ignored due to difficulty in understanding technical jargon and a simple 'Resistance to Change' Mentality or lethargic laissez faire external conditions.

'Don't make Waves!'

Let the Turkeys rule the roost, just Bitch about matters and keep on making as many bucks as you can while the goings good!

Rules the day!